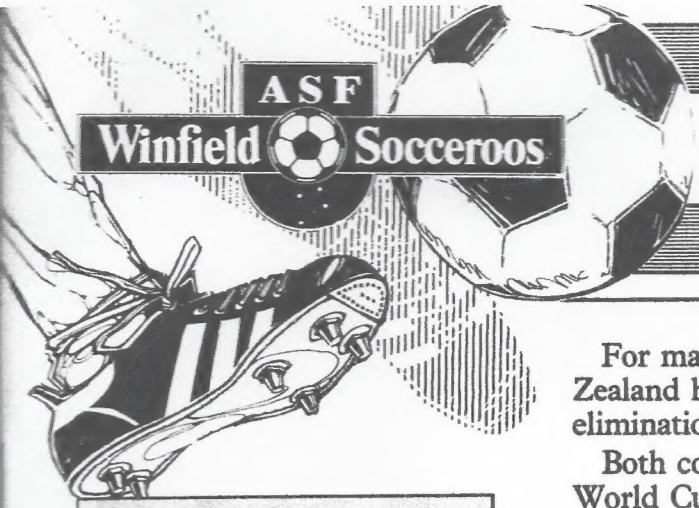
See Weekend Australian for details. N.S.W. Permit TC 86/1906 issued on 20/8/86. VIC Permit 86/889 issued on 18/8/86. A.C.T. Permit TP 86/565 issued on 14/8/86.



For many years now the only time Australia and New Zealand have played each other has been in the World Cup elimination fixtures.

Both countries have prepared independent of each other for World Cup games. We are both isolated from the main stream of World soccer traffic and to isolate outselves further by not helping each other prepare our teams is not good planning.

Thanks to Winfield this situation no longer exists and this annual event I am sure will become a very important date on the coaches' calendar, for both teams.

I welcome New Zealand to this the inaugural year of the Winfield Trans Tasman Cup.

LAST WEEK'S GAME IN AUCKLAND

By Tom Anderson, The Sydney "Daily Mirror"

THE performance of national coach Frank Arok's newest Winfield Socceroo team in the 1–1 draw at Mt Smart Stadium in Auckland last Saturday was a joy to watch and heralded in an exciting new era on the international front.

Against the experienced and battle hardened Kiwi outfit, the Winfield Socceroos, in their first outing together, turned in a display that did them proud. It was one of control, discipline, speed, flair and systematic football.

Had Lady Luck been on their side the much sought after victory would certainly have been forthcoming. In goal Jeff Olver, who really had little to do, produced his usual accomplished performance and had no chance with New Zealand's equaliser in the 60th minute which was only a half chance, well taken by Kiwi English born striker Andy Deeley.

The Australian defence, despite being hit by a tragic loss to key defender Garry McDowall, with an ankle injury in the 14th minute, was solid and well organised.

Alan Hunter, who came on as substitute for the injured McDowall, did well and looked the part. Wally Savor brought into the right-back position, did what was asked from him in his usual no-nonsense and articulate manner and was a success.

Graham Jennings produced his usual consistent game and never put a foot wrong. Big Robbie Dunn had his best game yet in an Australian jersey and showed a new found bite in his play.

New team captain Charlie Yankos, who played with a special back brace because of an injury picked up in the game against Victoria on the previous Wednesday night, was a real 'Captain Courageous'.

Big Charlie revelled in his new responsibilities and is now well on the road to become a great Australian skipper.

The midfield combination of Peter Raskopoulos, Paul Wade and Graham Arnold was nothing less than excellent!

Here was Raskopoulos at his brilliant best and he dominated the midfield with a barnstorming performance. Paul Wade is a real find and a player of immense talent who worked and schemed tirelessly throughout the 90 minutes.

In an attacking midfield role, Graham Arnold was another player who produced his best game ever for his country. His goal in the 54th minute was a gem and in this game, Arnold looked all class.

Australia's Chris Kalantzis being booked by N.Z. Referee Gary Fleet.

Up front, the dynamic duo of Chris Kalantzis and Frank Farina worked hard on both flanks and led the Kiwi defence a merry dance. The speed and skill of this pair will prove invaluable for the Winfield Socceroos for years to come.

Andrew Zinni was brought into the fray late in the second half and also impressed when he replaced Farina, who took a knock.

The New Zealand team — with loads of experience — were a disappointment, although their goalkeeper Frank Van Hattum was excellent and at times produced heroics to keep the eager young Aussies at bay.

The potential of this new Australian team is enormous and once again the future in the international arena looks bright for national coach Frank Arok and his talented youngsters.

Result:— New Zealand 1 (Deeley) Australia 1 (Arnold), Crowd:— 3,516.

TEAMS:— New Zealand:— Van Hattum; Herbert, Dunford, Boath, Cresswell (Barkley 15, McGarry 75); Turner, Witteveen, Hagan, Cole; Deeley, McLennan.

Australia:— Olver; Savor, Yankos, McDowall (Hunter 14), Jennings; Dunn, Raskopoulos, Arnold, Wade; Farina (Zinni 72), Kalantzis

Summary

Australia and New Zealand have met on 38 occasions. Australia have 21 victories to New Zealand's 9 with 8 drawn clashes

Series Victories

On the fourteen occasions "Series" have deemed to have been contested, Australia leads with nine series wins to New Zealand's four and one drawn.

Home and Away Records

| Nation | Win | Draw | Loss |
|---|---|---|---|
| Australia at Home | 9 | 1 | 5 |
| New Zealand at Home | 4 | 7 | 9 |
| Neutral Venues — Australia | 3 | 0 | 0 |

Last Decade

Competition between the two countries in the last 10 years has been a lot closer than in the 1930's to 1950's era. The two countries have met on 12 occasions for four victories each and four draws. New Zealand has lost only one home match while picking up three away wins. All four drawn matches were played in New Zealand.

General

Between 1977 and 1985 New Zealand was undefeated by Australia in seven consecutive matches.

Between 1933 to 1954 Australia was undefeated by New Zealand in ten matches on the trot. Then from 1954 (second match of series) to 1979 the record was extended to thirteen consecutive victories.

AUSTRALIAN COACH FRANK AROK

By Tom Anderson, The Sydney "Daily Mirror"

WINFIELD Socceroo coach Frank Arok has once again embarked on a team building program designed to take Australia to the 1988 Olympic Games Finals in Seoul and the 1990 World Cup Finals in Italy.

Maestro Arok has travelled down this road before — three years ago, when he first took command of the national team and completely rebuilt the Winfield Socceroo setup.

The end result in his first term may not have ended up in Mexico and the World Cup Finals, but he had the satisfaction that he built an outfit that produced the finest display of football ever forthcoming from an Australian team in the international arena.

This, of course, came in the clash with the might of Scotland in the scoreless draw in the final World Cup qualifying match at Olympic Park in Melbourne, last year.

It took almost three years for coach Arok's 'Old Squad' to reach their desired peak.

And this came after years of many games against top opposition, countless hours of hard work and sweat on the training track and above all, immense patience.

Patience of course, is the keyword in this new quest for glory.

Again, as in 1983, patience, hard work and plenty of games in the international arena, will be the format for success.

Arok may be an ace coach and with his assistant Eddie Thomson, a great combination, but neither has a magic wand to wave, to conjure overnight success.

This takes time and patience.

Despite being early days in the re-development of the national squad, coach Arok is confident he has at his disposal the material and talent to overshadow his former squad.

He is thoroughly convinced that his 'New Brigade' of national team players are endowed with greater skills and more pace than their predecessors.

His aim as usual is positive and he plans to produce a football team with skill, flair, pace, power and strong tactical planning.

Once again the system of play will be built on counter attacking football — undoubtedly the strong forte of Australian football.

The three main systematic functions will be — attack, defence and counter attack. The first two — attack and defence — are the basis of football and natural functions for any team.

But counter attacking football is something else and to perfect this function to its greatest advantage, takes hard work and plenty of it!

'When players come into the national squad they are fully adept in the arts of attack and defence,' Arok explained this week.

'However, when we get down to the system I desire and the intricate functions of counter attack, it's a different matter.

'To produce the end result requires a great deal of extra effort and understanding and indeed, it means they have to add another dimension to their play. To execute the counter attacking system as I want it, takes character from the players and a team with great heart.

'The players must thoroughly believe in this system and have faith in it. My coaching staff and myself must install this faith into the players so they can reach heights never before reached.

'All the players in our present squad are endowed with great skills, but they also need strength and energy to fully develop and utilise these skills in the system of counter attacking play. It is our task to make sure that this strength and energy will be forthcoming in the coming months and years.

'The main aim of our style will be to attack the opposition without being punished ourselves and the counter attacking game realizes this ideal. The main functions of our game will be 1–to attack, 2–to get back, 3–to win the ball, 4–to attack again.

Australian coach Frank Arok waves to the crowd in triumph despite the 0–0 draw with Scotland eliminating Australia from the World Cup.

To achieve the confidence of the players and a belief in the system, we will work on this at all times and, when they become accustomed to working with each other, for each other and as a unit, they will develop a pride in their performance second to none. That's basically what we're aiming for and I believe it's a situation that will be forthcoming.

'The standard of football at international level is becoming higher as the years progress. However, the gap between the recognised powers and the lesser nations is also closing, as was proved in the World Cup Finals in Mexico and I think in our clashes with Scotland last year.

'Indeed, this is an exciting new chapter in our football history and one that I'm confident will prove successful and fruitful.'

As a coach, Frank Arok is a perfectionist and a man who is totally dedicated to his profession.

And as always, 'the maestro' will leave no stone unturned to insure the Winfield Socceroos will once again be a team this nation can be proud of!

NEW ZEALAND COACH KEVIN FALLON

By Tom Anderson, The Sydney "Daily Mirror"

NEW Zealand coach Kevin Fallon is a 37-year-old Englishman who had experience in the UK with Rotherham and Southend and in the Republic of Eire with Sligo Rovers.

Fallon, a dour Yorkshireman, was appointed New Zealand assistant national team coach to John Adshead in 1980 and held this position during the Kiwis' participation in the 1982 World Cup Final series in Spain. He was then promoted to national team supremo in 1984.

On the club scene in New Zealand he has had coaching spells with the Gisborne, Nelson United and Hamilton clubs and has recently signed to take over the Hanimex North Shore club in Auckland for next season's campaign.

Fallon is an avid believer in New Zealand soccer and its capabilities in the international arena.

Over the years he has held a running war with the Australian media and relations between him and the Aussie media during last year's World Cup elimination games became strained to the limit — to put it bluntly!

With a reputation as a straight talker, Fallon pulled no punches in his column in the New Zealand Sunday Times after last week's 1–1 draw at Mt Smart Stadium in Auckland.

The performance of local referee Gary Fleet who controlled the game was given a real old blast!

'The referee and linesman weren't up to the standard required and Gary Fleet didn't take a firm grip on the game early on,' were Fallon's comments. He also declared that he was pleased by the way his team battled against the Winfield Socceroos.

'It was important we didn't lose the first match of the series and I was pleased with the way the lads battled,' he wrote. 'There were some plusses in our performance.

'Darren McClennan did very well and he has every right to be pleased with his efforts. Frank Van Hattum played extremely well in goal.

'Malcolm Dunford was a rock in the defence and Duncan Cole worked hard. What we did lack was creativity. At half time I asked them to be more constructive and to give a bit more of the ball to McClennan.

'We definitely picked up after the break. Unfortunately there wasn't enough creativity in our play but the match was never allowed to settle because of the officials. I know it won't be easy in Sydney, but I'm sure I have the players who can get us a positive result.

'Some of the less experienced players who were drafted into the squad now know what it is all about and they will benefit from the experience.'

Fallon is a coach who knows where he wants to go in the international arena and a real determined character.

However, whether or not he can succeed and reach the heights of his former boss John Adshead remains to be seen at this stage.

SPONSORSHIP FOR OCEANIA TECHNICAL DEVELOPMENT

By Tom Anderson, The Sydney "Daily Mirror"

THE Oceania Football Confederation of which Australia and New Zealand are the leading members has received a magnificent boost in the form of an $80,000 sponsorship.

The sponsorship — from Mitre Sports — will be channelled into the technical development of soccer within the Oceania region.

Recently, Mr Nigel Penny, a director of Mitre Sports, England flew into Sydney and presented the first payment of the four year sponsorship to Australian Soccer Federation executive director Mr Brian Emery. Mr Emery is also chairman of the Oceania Technical Committee.

The sponsorship money will be used to conduct courses and coaching academies for referees, coaches, sports medicine and administration of all eleven countries within Oceania.

Mitre have also a long term agreement with the Australian Soccer Federation covering the national teams and the national league. This extension by Mitre into Oceania is a natural step and has been encouraged by the Australian Soccer Federation.

After presenting the cheque at the ASF offices in Clarence St., Sydney, Mr Penny said his company were pleased to begin an association with the Oceania Football Confederation. 'We are pleased to have become involved with the technical development of soccer within the Oceania region,' Mr Penny said.

'It's an area that's on the move and one that is growing and developing in a healthy manner.'

Mr Emery, on receiving the cheque on behalf of Oceania, thanked the Mitre company for the sponsorship. 'This magnificent sponsorship will help the development of the game of soccer in the Oceania region and allow us to conduct courses in all departments of the game,'' he said.

Brian Emery with Mr Nigel Penny, Director Mitre Sports, England.

The Oceania Football Confederation is the smallest member Confederation in FIFA.

Continual representation is being made to FIFA to re-define the boundaries of Oceania to include more countries to make the Confederation more viable, for more direct representation to the four World Championships conducted by FIFA, but as yet they have not been realised.

During the past 18 months, 496 people from seven different Oceania nations have participated in courses ranging through administration, coaching, referees, sports medicine and tournaments.

The 1986-87 program now sponsored by Mitre, will follow a similar pattern at a higher level. FIFA will be requested to send guest lecturers to keep member countries abreast of all the current trends in other Confederations.

This is Oceania's 20th year of existence and this new sponsorship from Mitre has certainly made it a year to remember!

ROTHMANS MEDAL WINNER

By Tom Anderson, The Sydney "Daily Mirror"

FORMER Winfield Socceroo defender Bobby Russell from the South Melbourne club was this year's National Rothman's Gold Medal Winner.

Russell 31, became the first Melbourne based player to win a national award despite his belief during the vote counting that he would again finish runner-up in a big award. In 1978 he finished one point behind another former Winfield Socceroo — Terry Butler of Apia — in the 1978 NSW Rothman's Medal.

Russell played the full season of 22 games with South Melbourne during the past season, starting as full-back and switching to a midfield role late in the competition.

The South Melbourne star won the coveted medal by two votes from another former national team player Arno Bertogna of Apia, with another two points to two current Winfield Socceroos — striker Graham Arnold and defender Alan Hunter and Sunshine George Cross's Tyrone James. Russell has played 108 consecutive NSL matches and made four appearances for the Winfield Socceroos in the late seventies.

'It was an unexpected win and I cannot find words to describe it,' he said afterwards. 'But I would like to dedicate the medal to my wife Polly who has had to battle a serious illness during the season.'

The big gathering at the Southern Cross Hotel in Melbourne for the award night received an unexpected bonus when a live satellite interview was held with former England World Cup star Bobby Charlton.

NATIONAL TEAMS ON OVERSEAS DUTY

By Tom Anderson, The Sydney "Daily Mirror"

THE Winfield Socceroos and the Young Socceroos will soon fly off to foreign shores to pit their strengths against leading overseas opposition.

National coach Frank Arok will take the senior team to the People's Republic of China to defend the International Ampol Cup. The Cup defence against China will take place in Canton on Sunday November 23, in the opening game of the three match tour.

The Winfield Socceroos' second game, will be on Tuesday, November 25 also in Canton against their Provincial representative side. The Australian party will then fly to Shanghai for the last match of the series on Friday November 28 — a full international against China.

The Winfield Socceroos will stay overnight in Hong Kong on their way and on the return journey from China, but no games will be played in the Crown Colony.

On November 19 national youth coach Les Scheinflug will take his Young Socceroos to Bangkok to contest the Queens Cup Tournament. This will be used by coach Scheinflug as a final preparation for the Oceania qualifying round of the World Youth Championships which will be held in Auckland in January.

The winner of the Oceania qualifying series will qualify for the WYC Finals for the Coca-Cola Cup in Chile next August.

„ We would like to take this opportunity to wish both coaches and their teams good fortune on their sorties.

We have no doubts whatsoever they will do Australia proud in their endeavours.

THE WINFIELD SOCCEROOS OWN 'MAD MAX'

By Tom Anderson, The Sydney "Daily Mirror"

TO his new Winfield mates, he's 'Mad Max' but Adelaide City striker, Steve Maxwell, is nobody's fool!

Indeed 'Slapsy Maxie' demonstrated all too well in the second half of the national playoffs against Sydney Olympic at Parramatta Stadium, he has the power and skill to terrorise the best of defences. Thick-set and with a strength seemingly hewn from granite, Maxie burst into the lime-light with an electrifying start to the 1986 season.

He scored five goals in two games, including tearing the heart from Footscray with a hat-trick in a 7-1 mauling at Olympic Sportsfield in Adelaide. With his hard running, aggression and dynamic finishing with either foot, Maxie underlined the fact that he meant business and was ready to establish himself as Australia's most dangerous striker.

This in turn attracted closer marking as a result, for a while the goals dried up. But the big lad proved to be a real champion and showed he had the skill, courage and temperament to alter his style and become a provider for his team-mates in City's charge to the title.

However the scoring magic returned in the crucial run-in to the season when Maxie grabbed the goals that helped City to become undisputed club champions of Australian soccer.

Maxie's all-round striking and unselfish leadership soon attracted the attention of Winfield Socceroo coach Frank Arok.

And Steve, 21, gained national team recognition for the three-match series against Czechoslovakia last August.

Indeed his first cap in Adelaide, helped wipe away Maxwell's frustration at missing being selected for the Young Socceroos for the 1983 World Cup Finals in Mexico. Maxie started his career with the West Torrens Birkalla colts as an Under-12 colt.

The big striker gained previous representative experience overseas when he was a member of South Australia's victorious side in the DCM Trophy series in India last Christmas.

Maxwell, 180.5cm and 80kg, joined City in 1983 after helping Birkalla gain promotion to the State's First Division. Away from soccer, Maxwell is a storeman with a quiet, unassuming outlook on life.

But on the field, he's desperate to justify the hopes coach Arok has pinned now on him. If Slapy Maxie gets his wish, he'll follow one of his few superstitutions and be always be last our on to the playing arena with the Socceroos.

But that's where it ends and he'll always be first into the danger area — the opposing penalty area where only the brave, like Mad Max Maxwell flourish!
